House Panel To Decide On Income Tax Relief

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposal to cut most Americans' income taxes an average of 15½ per cent approached a crucial vote today in the House Ways and Means Committee.

The plan was worked out by the Treasury to complete a tax bill the committee has been putting together for most of the year. The House is expected to take up the legislation early next month.

tion may take longer in the Senate, despite President Kennedy's pleas that a tax cut be enacted this year.

One key member of the committee said a vote by the tax writing group would come soon, perhaps today. Several said they expected agreement on rates approximating those proposed by the Treasury which revised its own earlier suggestions to conform with changes the committee has made in other parts of the tax program.

As unveiled Monday before the committee by Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, the revised proposals would result in a net reduction of $10,645,000,000 in individual and corporate tax rates by 1965. Kennedy's proposals in January were estimated to net a $10,320,000,000 reduction.

Thus, the administration reshaped its rate reduction proposals to come up with approximately the same net result after taking into account changes made by the committee in the President's revenue-raising proposals.

A major factor, Dillon said, was the committee's rejection of a 5 per cent floor under itemized deductions. This provision would have cut down itemized deductions—for local taxes, interest, charity and the like—by allowing only the amount in excess of 5 per cent of a taxpayer's income.

By rejecting it the committee wiped out more than two-thirds of the $3 billion pickup in revenue the administration counted on in its original tax proposal. The committee did restore in a sense a pickup of about $500 million by disallowing certain state taxes, principally those on gasoline, cigarettes and liquor.

The pattern of economic development since the President's message in January has served to confirm the need for a net tax reduction of $10.3 billion, Dillon said.

"While progress so far this year has been somewhat better than earlier expectations, the outlook for reducing unemployment, in the absence of substantial tax reduction, has certainly not improved, he said.

The tax rates advanced by Dillon range from 14 to 70 per cent in place of the 14 to 65 spread originally proposed. Present rates run from 20 to 91 per cent.

The Treasury figured that, under its proposals, a married man with two dependents who earns $5,000 a year and claims average deductions would save $65 of his present $300-a-year tax bill. A $10,000-a-year man in the same situation would save $202 of his present $1,196 tax, a $20,000-a-year man $626 from his present $3,410 tax, and a $50,000-a-year man $2,207 from his $14,576 tax bill.

Taxpayers at the high and low ends of the scales would get the biggest proportionate savings.

Present rates range from 20 per cent on the first $2,000 of taxable income to 91 per cent on income over $200,000.

Under the administration proposal, the bottom $2,000 bracket would be split into four $500 brackets, taxed at 14, 15, 16 and 17 per cent. The climb in rates would stop at incomes over $100,000 which would be taxed at 70 per cent.

Two-thirds of the savings for individual taxpayers, under the proposal, would go into effect Jan. 1, the rest a year later.

Berlin's Red Wall Is 2 Years Old

BERLIN (AP)—The Red Wall of Berlin—symbol of man's cruelty to man, of dictatorship, of tragedy and of courage—was two years old today.

At various points along the concrete, barbed wire-topped barricade, West Berliners scheduled memorial services for the wall's victims—the dead, the imprisoned and those separated from families and friends.

West Berlin police stationed reinforcements along the wall to keep any demonstrations from turning violent. On the first anniversary last year, several thousand West Berliners attacked Soviet vehicles with rocks and bottles and unleashed tear gas battles between East German border guards and Western police.

On Sunday, Aug. 13, 1961, East Germany's Red regime sealed off West Berlin to stem the tide of refugees from communism. The day before, a new refugee was registered every 40 seconds in West Berlin. In July, a total of 30,415 had fled.

Protected by tanks and heavily armed troops, workmen began unrolling hundreds of miles of barbed wire along the border between West and East Berlin.

Thousands of angry West Berliners threatened the next day to tear the wire away with their bare hands. Communist armored cars, bayonets and water cannons kept them back.

Two days later, bricklayers went to work. The wall has since become the most formidable fortification in the heart of Europe, winding like a deadly snake for 26½ miles through the city.

It separates about 500,000 of West Berlin's 2.2 million people from relatives on the Communist side. Another 74½ miles of triple barbed wire with 111 watch towers fences off the city's outer borders from East Germany.

Since Aug. 24, 1961, when Red submachine guns mowed down Guenther Liffkin, 25, as he tried to reach West Berlin, at least 50 persons have been killed at the wall.

At least 12 have been seriously wounded by gunfire. More than 1,500 arrests have been observed. East German border guards have hurled more than 400 tear gas grenades into West Berlin. Two Communist guards were shot dead—one by a man trying to aid an escape, the other by a West Berlin policeman defending a refugee.

Despite the wall and the guns, more than 3,000 persons have escaped to West Berlin through tunnels dug beneath the wall, in cars and trucks and even an armored car which smashed through the masonry.

Once Around Roundtown

A COOLING trend moved into the Pickaway County area today following last night's rainfall which measured 1.02 inches. The weatherman said occasional showers would prevail today and tonight, with a chance of showers tomorrow are to be 55-80.

SOME PLEASANT and interesting reading was in store this week for Mrs. Frank Wilkinson 209 N. Pickaway St., after she found a souvenir edition of The Circleville Herald, dated Oct. 3, 1910.

The special edition, in observance of Pickaway County's Centennial Celebration, was found in a trunk at the Wilkinson home.

The editor and publisher at that time was Walter C. Darst.

The four-page paper, in excellent condition considering its age, gives a detailed rundown on Circleville and Pickaway County history as it was known at that time.

Included are easily recognized pictures of the Logan Elm, the present courthouse, the second courthouse that was built in 1845-47, the present day Memorial Hall and a map of the city as it appeared in its circular shape in 1836. Considerable space also is devoted to local business and industry as it existed then.

Much of the Centennial information was written by Miss May Lowe, a member of The Herald staff in 1910.

Final Tribute Is Paid to Sen. Kefauver

MADISONVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The people who first sent him to Congress from the mountains of East Tennessee 25 years ago join the nation's leaders today in a final tribute to Sen. Estes Kefauver.

A casket bearing the body of the tall, gangling Tennesseean, whose coonskin cap and hand-shake were known nationwide, arrived in Knoxville this morning on a military plane from Washington.

A black hearse took the body to Madisonville, 40 miles southwest of Knoxville. Intermittent rain fell in the Madisonville area but no immediate changes were made in the planned outdoor services.

Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, who headed the Democratic ticket when Kefauver ran for vice president in 1956, and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson were among the notables coming here for the funeral of Kefauver, who died Saturday of a heart attack.

Also in the congressional delegation flying to Knoxville were Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, Republican minority leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, 21 other senators and Tennessee's remaining congressmen.

The body will lie in state at the First Baptist Church in this town of 1,800 which lies in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains. Services will be on the front porch of the Kefauver home to allow more people to attend.

Ohio Escapee Held In Kentucky Slaying

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—An escapee from the state prison farm at Marietta, Ohio, has been charged with murder and robbery in the shooting of a tavern keeper.

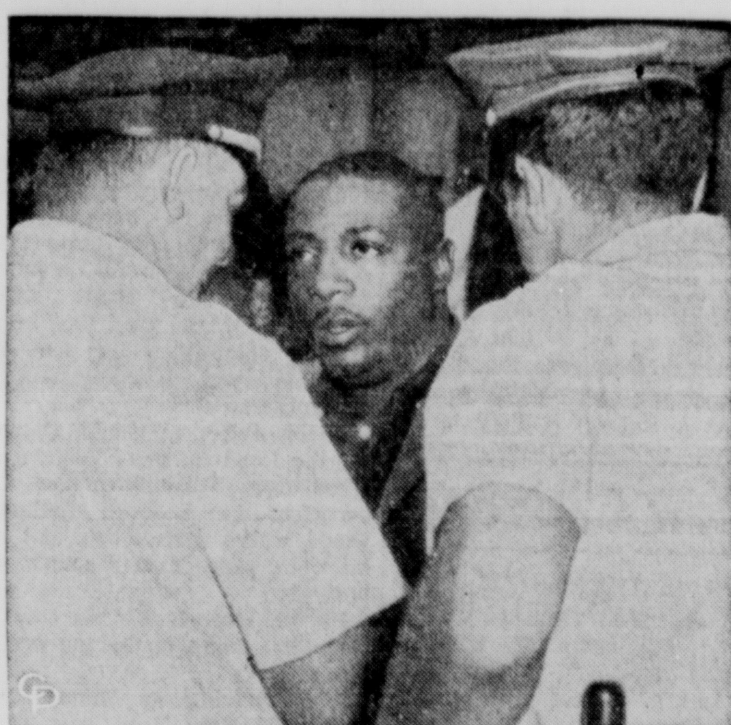

George Henry Darby, 41, was arrested Monday as he walked down a street a few hours after Noel Bowling, 51, was shot dead by a holdup man at the Corner Cafe.

Police said Darby escaped from the prison farm May 17. He was serving a five-year sentence for burglary.

Darby formerly lived at Dayton, Ky., and more recently spent some time at Columbus and Dayton, Ohio.

U.N. Members Hit By Racial Pickets

NEW YORK (AP) — Seventy civil rights demonstrators picketed the United Nations Monday calling on countries to halt construction of exhibits at the 1964-65 New York world's fair until more Negroes and Puerto Ricans were hired for the work.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said picketing might be extended to sites at the fair in Flushing Meadow Park, Queens.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said today the foundation of America's strength is—and always will be—local self-government.

He told nearly 2,000 mayors and other city officials that local government "is not a weak and faltering relic, being systematically eroded by federal government."

In a speech prepared for the 40th annual convention of the American Municipal Association, Johnson said: "We cannot meet our national responsibilities unless and until we meet our local responsibilities. We are challenged—and challenged urgently—to do just that."

"This generation of Americans has been faced with and has responded courageously to great challenges in the world. Our needs at home have been subordinated. Many have been neglected. Some have been ignored."

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 9 million Latin-American children are being fed through a special food for peace program administered in 18 Alliance for Progress countries, the Agency for International Development said today.

This is a 138-percent increase over the 3.9 million children who were benefiting from the child-feeding program a year ago, the agency said.

Voluntary agencies, principally Church World Service are contributing to the program, called "Operation Ninos." Eighteen alliance countries including the United States are cooperating.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Charles Sullivan, who ran third in the governor's race in last week's Democratic primary, will support former Gov. J.P. Coleman in the Aug. 27 runoff against Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson Jr.

Sullivan, in a statewide television talk Monday night, said: "Mississippi would be far better off under the leadership" of Coleman.

He said he withheld his decision until Coleman agreed last Wednesday to oppose the federal government's encroachment on states' rights.

"He gave me his solemn oath he would fight the re-election of President Kennedy in 1964 and fight against New Frontiersism" if elected governor, said Sullivan, a Clarkdale attorney.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—A terrifying ride through a sewer pipe failed to dampen Billy Coughlin's spirit.

The 14-year-old delivery boy for the Manchester Union Leader went home, changed clothes and left on his paper route.

Police said Billy was lucky to be alive.

With four friends, Billy was investigating the huge sewer pipe leading from a manhole near his home. A sudden roar brought the band up short. Billy was swept away by a burst of water which carried him near the outlet in the Merrimac River.

Billy said he grabbed a wire mesh screen and hung on until the water subsided. Then he scrambled up the pipe to the nearest opening.

U.S. Nuclear War Superiority Bared

Attorneys Oppose Changes in Laws

CHICAGO (AP)—Three proposals to change the U.S. Constitution and curtail the powers of the federal government have been opposed by the American Bar Association.

Earlier this year, Chief Justice Earl Warren took the nation's lawyers to task for silence about the amendments, calling it "almost an abdication of its (the bar's) responsibility to the public."

Without any dissent, the ABA House of Delegates Monday went on record as opposing two of the amendments. The House of Delegates, the ABA's policy-making group, has 258 members.

One amendment would make it possible for states to propose and ratify constitutional amendments on their own, without approval of Congress or a national convention.

The second, also turned down without any opposition, would make possible overruling of decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court by a "court of the union" comprising of the chief justices of the 50 states.

A third, rejected in a 136-74 standing vote, would wipe out federal jurisdiction over the apportionment of seats in state legislatures.

Should any of the proposed amendments receive support from 34 states, Congress would have to call a national convention to accept or reject it.

The third amendment, which brought some debate in the ABA sessions, would reverse the March 1962 Baker vs. Carr decision of the Supreme Court.

In Baker vs. Carr the court held that citizens could seek relief in federal courts when unequal representation of state legislatures violated constitutional rights. Outcries of protest came from rural-dominated legislatures that have refused to reapportion to meet population changes.

The three amendments, at least one of which has been approved in 16 state legislatures, were proposed by the Chicago-based Council on State Governments.

Third Buddhist Burns Self Up

Sacrificial Suicide Is Viet Nam Protest

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A Buddhist novice monk slipped out of his pagoda during the night and burned himself to death in protest against the South Vietnamese government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

It was the third Buddhist suicide by fire and followed a suicide attempt Monday night by a girl in Saigon who tried to cut off her arm with a hatchet.

Stunned Buddhist leaders said they had not authorized the novice, Thich Thanh Tue, 17, to take his life. The leaders appeared to be losing control of the suicide tactic they began two months ago.

The charred body of the novice was found this morning outside a pagoda three miles west of the central Vietnamese city of Hue.

He apparently soaked his clothing in kerosene and touched a match to himself about 2 a.m. He died alone and his body was found four hours later.

Reliable sources said the monk left behind four letters, all protesting the persecution which Buddhist leaders charge to the Roman Catholic-dominated Diem government.

Thousands of Buddhists were reported en route to the scene from Hue. It was reported that the procession was orderly and police made no attempt to interfere.

Hue, ancient capital of Viet Nam, was the scene of the initial outbreak in the bitter dispute between the Buddhists and the Diem government.

The girl who tried to kill herself was Mai Tuyet An, 18, a Saigon University student. Monks and nuns found her screaming incoherently in Saigon's main pagoda, her arm crushed. They bandaged her arm and reluctantly took her to a hospital after the American Embassy refused to supply a doctor.

Barnett Raps At Meredith

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett was involved in a last-ditch battle today to keep James H. Meredith from becoming a fellow alumnus of the University of Mississippi.

The governor said Monday he recommended postponement of the graduation of Meredith — scheduled Sunday—pending an investigation into whether he violated a school directive against inflammatory statements.

Barnett said he made the recommendation to the State College Board because he felt Meredith did "clearly and unmistakably violate" the directive.

The governor said Meredith "publicly criticized the courts of Mississippi, the juries and the public officials and said 'all this behind the scene trickery is adding nothing but encouragement to the lawlessness of the white supremacists'."

McNamara OKs Test Ban Pact

Warhead Supply Rated In Tens of Thousands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today U.S. nuclear superiority over Russia has increased substantially in the last four years and this country now has warheads "in the tens of thousands."

Nothing in the limited nuclear test ban treaty will shift the balance of power, he said.

McNamara was urging ratification of the treaty at a second day of Senate hearings when he gave the unusual statement of comparative military might.

He testified before the Senate Foreign Relations, Armed Services and Atomic committees. The big Senate caucus room, scene of the hearing, was jammed with spectators.

McNamara had said earlier in an opening statement that the treaty would help preserve a nuclear lead over Russia.

In giving his "unequivocal support" to the treaty which would ban all but underground tests, he assured the Senate the United States is determined to maintain a nuclear force that is "manifestly superior to the Soviet Union's."

"By limiting Soviet testing to the underground environment," he declared, "we can at least retard Soviet progress and prolong the duration of our technical superiority."

Thus in an opening, prepared statement for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and members of other interested committees, McNamara gave military backing to the treaty much as Secretary of State Dean Rusk supported it Monday on diplomatic grounds.

Some 12 hours before McNamara went to Capitol Hill, the Atomic Energy Commission announced the underground detonation at its Nevada test site of a nuclear device of low yield.

This was the first nuclear explosion since the United States, Britain and Russia signed the treaty a week ago in Moscow.

McNamara's defense of the treaty—an unprecedented public discussion of U.S. nuclear capabilities—was, in effect, a reply to

5 Are Held In Cleveland Dope Probe

CLEVELAND (AP)—Narcotics charges have been filed against five persons arrested at what police called a marijuana party in a rooming house.

Five others arrested early Sunday at the rooming house in the University Circle area were freed Monday after posting $200 personal bond as material witnesses. Two others were released.

Police confiscated 13 packets of crude marijuana and one vial of powdered marijuana in a third-floor room rented by a Harvard University student Timothy Dotson.

Dotson was one of those charged with possession of narcotics, along with Harold Hills, 21, of Cleveland, a clerk; William Linhard, 20, a musician; and Joanna Miskin, 19, of Brooklyn Heights, a student at Western Reserve University.

Accused of supplying the marijuana for the party was John L. Kramel, 20, a Kent State University student.

Police in Kent said Monday they found five pounds of marijuana worth about $350 in Kramel's home. They arrested Kramel's wife Regina, 20, also a Kent student. She was held in Portage County Jail under $2,000 bond following an arraignment on a narcotics possession charge.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—A terrifying ride through a sewer pipe failed to dampen Billy Coughlin's spirit.

The 14-year-old delivery boy for the Manchester Union Leader went home, changed clothes and left on his paper route.

Police said Billy was lucky to be alive.

With four friends, Billy was investigating the huge sewer pipe leading from a manhole near his home. A sudden roar brought the band up short. Billy was swept away by a burst of water which carried him near the outlet in the Merrimack River.

Billy said he grabbed a wire mesh screen and hung on until the water subsided. Then he scrambled up the pipe to the nearest opening.

ALGIERS (AP)—French army convoy activity led to speculation today that a new French nuclear test is imminent in the Algerian Sahara.

The London Daily Telegraph said France may conduct a test underground. Both the French and Algerian governments maintained silence on this and other reports about the prospects.

U.S. Nuclear War Superiority Bared

Attorneys Oppose Changes in Laws

CHICAGO (AP)—Three proposals to change the U.S. Constitution and curtail the powers of the federal government have been opposed by the American Bar Association.

Earlier this year, Chief Justice Earl Warren took the nation's lawyers to task for silence about the amendments, calling it "almost an abdication of its (the bar's) responsibility to the public."

Without any dissent, the ABA House of Delegates Monday went on record as opposing two of the amendments. The House of Delegates, the ABA's policy-making group, has 258 members.

One amendment would make it possible for states to propose and ratify constitutional amendments on their own, without approval of Congress or a national convention.

The second, also turned down without any opposition, would make possible overruling of decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court by a "court of the union" comprising of the chief justices of the 50 states.

A third, rejected in a 136-74 standing vote, would wipe out federal jurisdiction over the appointment of seats in state legislatures.

Should any of the proposed amendments receive support from 34 states, Congress would have to call a national convention to accept or reject it.

The third amendment, which brought some debate in the ABA sessions, would reverse the March 1962 Baker vs. Carr decision of the Supreme Court.

In Baker vs. Carr the court held that citizens could seek relief in federal courts when unequal representation of state legislatures violated constitutional rights. Outcries of protest came from rural-dominated legislatures that have refused to reapportion to meet population changes.

The three amendments, at least one of which has been approved in 16 state legislatures, were proposed by the Chicago-based Council on State Governments.

Third Buddhist Burns Self Up

Sacrificial Suicide Is Viet Nam Protest

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A Buddhist novice monk slipped out of his pagoda during the night and burned himself to death in protest against the South Vietnamese government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

It was the third Buddhist suicide by fire and followed a suicide attempt Monday night by a girl in Saigon who tried to cut off her arm with a hatchet.

Stunned Buddhist leaders said they had not authorized the novice, Thich Thanh Tue, 17, to take his life. The leaders appeared to be losing control of the suicide tactic they began two months ago.

The charred body of the novice was found this morning outside a pagoda three miles west of the central Vietnamese city of Hue.

He apparently soaked his clothing in kerosene and touched a match to himself about 2 a.m. He died alone and his body was found four hours later.

Reliable sources said the monk left behind four letters, all protesting the persecution which Buddhist leaders charge to the Roman Catholic-dominated Diem government.

Thousands of Buddhists were reported en route to the scene from Hue. It was reported that the procession was orderly and police made no attempt to interfere.

Hue, ancient capital of Viet Nam, was the scene of the initial outbreak in the bitter dispute between the Buddhists and the Diem government.

The girl who tried to kill herself was Mai Tuyet An, 18, a Saigon University student. Monks and nuns found her screaming incoherently in Saigon's main pagoda, her arm crushed. They bandaged her arm and reluctantly took her to a hospital after the American Embassy refused to supply a doctor.

The brick farm house is in an isolated area. Its windows were blacked out. A large supply of food was found there.

Barnett Raps At Meredith

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett was involved in a last-ditch battle today to keep James H. Meredith from becoming a fellow alumnus of the University of Mississippi.

The governor said Monday he recommended postponement of the graduation of Meredith — scheduled Sunday—pending an investigation into whether he violated a school directive against inflammatory statements.

Barnett said he made the recommendation to the State College Board because he felt Meredith did "clearly and unmistakably violate" the directive.

The governor said Meredith "publicly criticized the courts of Mississippi, the juries and the public officials and said 'all this behind the scene trickery is adding nothing but encouragement to the lawlessness of the white supremacists'."

Watchdog Stands Guard As His Collar Is Stolen

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—Franklin Binau of Kenton is beginning to wonder how much good it is to have a watchdog.

His dog, a 45-pound collie, was at his post Monday morning. But the dog's collar and chain had been stolen.

McNamara OKs Test Ban Pact

Warhead Supply Rated In Tens of Thousands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today U.S. nuclear superiority over Russia has increased substantially in the last four years and this country now has warheads "in the tens of thousands."

Nothing in the limited nuclear test ban treaty will shift the balance of power, he said.

McNamara was urging ratification of the treaty at a second day of Senate hearings when he gave the unusual statement of comparative military might.

He testified before the Senate Foreign Relations, Armed Services and Atomic committees. The big Senate caucus room, scene of the hearing, was jammed with spectators.

McNamara had said earlier in an opening statement that the treaty would help preserve a nuclear lead over Russia.

In giving his "unequivocal support" to the treaty which would ban all but underground tests, he assured the Senate the United States is determined to maintain a nuclear force that is "manifestly superior to the Soviet Union's."

"By limiting Soviet testing to the underground environment," he declared, "we can at least retard Soviet progress and prolong the duration of our technical superiority."

In an opening, prepared statement for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and members of other interested committees, McNamara gave military backing to the treaty much as Secretary of State Dean Rusk supported it Monday on diplomatic grounds.

Some 12 hours before McNamara went to Capitol Hill, the Atomic Energy Commission announced the underground detonation at its Nevada test site of a nuclear device of low yield.

This was the first nuclear explosion since the United States, Britain and Russia signed the treaty a week ago in Moscow.

McNamara's defense of the treaty—an unprecedented public discussion of U.S. nuclear capabilities—was, in effect, a reply to

5 Are Held In Cleveland Dope Probe

CLEVELAND (AP)—Narcotics charges have been filed against five persons arrested at what police called a marijuana party in a rooming house.

Five others arrested early Sunday at the rooming house in the University Circle area were freed Monday after posting $200 personal bond as material witnesses. Two others were released.

Police confiscated 13 packets of crude marijuana and one vial of powdered marijuana in a third-floor room rented by a Harvard University student Timothy Dotson.

Dotson was one of those charged with possession of narcotics, along with Harold Hills, 21, of Cleveland, a clerk; William Linhard, 20, a musician; and Joanna Misnik, 19, of Brooklyn Heights, a student at Western Reserve University.

Accused of supplying the marijuana for the party was John L. Kramel, 20, a Kent State University student.

Police in Kent said Monday they found five pounds of marijuana worth about $350 in Kramel's home. They arrested Kramel's wife Regina, 20, also a Kent student. She was held in Portage County Jail under $2,000 bond following an arraignment on a narcotics possession charge.

Physician Dies at 104

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Dr. Marion C. Millender, 104, known for several years as one of the nation's oldest practicing physicians, died Monday. Millender, practiced in Asheville until he was in his 90s.

FOUR INJURED — The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated a two-car accident just northeast of the city yesterday evening in which four persons sustained injuries of varying degrees. Kenneth May, a passenger, was admitted to Berger Hospital for treatment while three persons were referred to a doctor for observation and treatment.

Paternity Suit May Prevent Extradition of Ex-Dictator

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A paternity suit appeared today to be the only barrier holding up return of Marcos Perez Jimenez, former Venezuelan dictator, to his homeland to face trial for embezzlement.

The U.S. State Department announced Monday that Perez Jimenez, accused of embezzling more than $13 million in public funds, would be extradited. A chartered plane was sent from Caracas to take him home.

It was the first time the United States approved extradition of a former chief of government and it climaxed a legal fight lasting more than four years.

Perez Jimenez, however, remained in federal custody in the Dade County jail where he has been since Dec. 12, 1962, while his attorneys explored every legal avenue of escape.

The latest development came last Thursday when Judge Robert Anderson of Dade County Circuit Court signed an order forbidding Perez Jimenez to leave the court's jurisdiction.

Anderson also signed an order for Perez Jimenez to put up $300,000 bond pending outcome of a suit by Iona Marita Lorenz, 26, of Miami. She seeks to tie up his assets while the courts decide whether a $75,000 trust fund he allegedly established for her and her 5-year-old daughter will be recognized.

Irving Jaffe, a special attorney for the Department of Justice, arrived from Washington and told reporters he believed Anderson would waive jurisdiction and not interfere with Perez Jimenez' deportation.

He told reporters, "We hope to clear this thing up by the end of the week."

Also arriving in Miami were Counselor Raul Nass, who came from the Venezuelan Embassy with him was Howard Westwood, one of the attorneys representing the Venezuelan government.

A military uprising threw Perez Jimenez out of office in January 1958. He came to Miami from the Dominican Republic in March of that year, taking up residence with his wife and four daughters in a $400,000 mansion at Miami Beach.

His personal fortune was estimated at $700 million in a federal court suit early this year. "During my administration my country became prosperous," Perez Jimenez said. "It is not strange that I prospered along with other people. This prosperity was not from embezzlements but from the participation in legitimate businesses."

Foreclosures Cause Alarm

WASHINGTON (AP)—A searching congressional study of home mortgage foreclosures is needed, Rep. Oliver P. Bolton, R-Ohio, said today.

This year, he said, about 1.5 million homes will be built in the United States representing one of the best years for the home building industry.

"That this concern is real is reflected by a recent study by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency in which the overall problem of rising foreclosure rates was studied in considerable depth.

"During the five-year period between 1957 and 1962 the annual number of private foreclosures increased by a horrendous 153 per cent.

"While in 1957 there were 34,204 skyrocketed to 86,444. Expectations are that there will be over 100,000 foreclosures this year."

those who fear the ban would work to the military disadvantage of the United States.

He gave detailed figures on nuclear weapons which until now had been carefully censored out of all published testimony.

Among the points McNamara made:

The United States has nuclear superiority, is determined to maintain it and to achieve that "we maintain a total number of nuclear warheads, tactical as well as strategic, in the tens of thousands."

In very large weapons, the Soviets appear now to have some advantage in technology but not in delivery ability.

The Soviets probably have no missile at this time which will deliver a 100-megaton warhead to ICBM ranges although even under a test ban, the Soviets could elect to develop such a missile.

The United States prefers to rely on smaller megatonnage bombs used in multiple numbers rather than build giant-size weapons. However, "the United States, without any further testing, can develop a warhead with a yield of 50 to 60 megatons" for delivery by its B52 bombers.

"It is clear that the Soviets do not have anything like the number of missiles necessary to knock out our Minuteman force, nor do they appear to have any present plans to acquire such capability."

McNamara said "the net of the relevant factors is that the U.S. nuclear force is manifestly superior to the Soviet Union's."

"The U.S. force now contains more than 500 missiles—Atlas, Titan, Minuteman, Polaris—and is planned to increase to over 1,700 by 1966. In addition, the U.S. has Strategic Air Command bombers on air-alert and over 500 SAC bombers on quick-reaction alert."

"By comparison, the consensus is that today the Soviets could place less than half as many bombers over North America on a first strike; the Soviets are estimated to have today only a fraction as many ICBM missiles, and their submarine launched ballistic missiles are short-ranged, require surface launch and generally are not comparable to our Polaris force. Between now and 1968, it is estimated that our ballistic missile numerical superiority will increase both absolutely and relatively."

Stock Market Trading Heavy

NEW YORK (AP) — Chrysler was a standout in an irregularly higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

Gains of most key stocks were fractional and the losers included many issues hit by profit taking as a result of their strength the past couple of days.

Chrysler rose about a point. As traders took profits on its big recent rise, Parke, Davis sank more than 2 points, then trimmed the loss in later dealings.

Most of the important stock groups were thoroughly scrambled.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 273.4 with industrials up 1.3, rails up .3, and utilities up .1.

Ford was off a fraction. General Motors eased.

Winorr Announces Decision To Halt Canning Operation

After many years of operation in both Circleville and Wauseon, the Winorr Canning Co. today announced its decision to cease all production in both cities and enter into an orderly liquidation.

The move to terminate operations was not an easy one to make, according to David G. Orr, Winorr president. The halt here this year, coupled with ceasing of canning production in Ashville, marks the first time in 90 years corn and other products have not been canned or processed in Pickaway County.

All Winorr equipment, machinery and real estate will eventually be sold, according to Orr. The firm operated for more than 60 years at its factory site on the southeast corner of Logan and Washington Sts.

The company will continue to sell its remaining canned goods inventory through its regular customers, the wholesale grocers.

ORR, speaking on behalf of employees and stockholders, said the company has greatly appreciated the many farmer, community, industry and customer friendships which have developed over the years.

Changing times and new methods of canning production were referred to as factors in bringing about the decision to quit production. The Winorr official said termination seemed the only practical solution.

The canning firm was initiated here 1902 by Samuel B. Orr, the current president's grandfather, under a partnership with W. L. Pressing. In 1912 the partnership was dissolved and the Circleville plant was chartered under the name of The Winorr Canning Co.

Records show the first corn processing in this area was opened in 1873 by the Sears Co. Original production centered on a drying method, followed by a canning operation similar to that of today.

During the 1920's Winorr erected small one-line plants at Williamsport, Stoutsville and Bainbridge. These branch firms were added as expansion plants to the main Circleville production operation.

In 1935, a new five-line plant was built at Wauseon and the small branch plants at Williamsport, Stoutsville and Bainbridge were closed.

IN 1958 The Esmeralda Canning Co. here was purchased by Winorr which allowed for increased production facilities. In 1961 Esmeralda equipment was moved to the Circleville and Wauseon plants.

During past summer and fall canning seasons, upwards of 200 men and women were employed at Circleville. Last year's pay was in the neighborhood of $196,000.

In 1962 more than 2,800 acres of vegetables for canning were contracted with local farmers. Payments to these growers amounted to about $155,000.

In recent years the Winorr Co. packed early June peas, sweet peas, whole kernel and cream style corn in both yellow and white varieties, green lima beans, succotash and pumpkin. The Wauseon plant processed tomatoes, tomato juice and whole kernel golden corn.

The balance of these products were sold in consumer can sizes under the company's Mozart, Goodwill and Werthmore brands. A sizable amount went to wholesale grocers and chain stores under their private brand labels.

Going OLDS is the Going Thing

Malaysia Slowed

Three national leaders of Southeast Asia have agreed to turn over to UN Secretary General U Thant their dispute concerning the proposed new federation of Malaysia.

The three — President Sukarno of Indonesia, President Riosado Macapagal of the Philippines and Malaysian Prime Minister Abdul Rahman—have said they will abide by Thant's finding.

But Sukarno is the joker in the deck. His past behavior raises doubts whether he will accept Thant's ruling if it is not to his liking.

Malaysia was scheduled to come into being Aug. 31. Representatives of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo have agreed to form the federation. It has Britain's blessing (Malaya is an independent Commonwealth country, and the others are British colonies).

But the Philippines and Indonesia object. They contend that the people of Sarawak and North Borneo should be permitted to vote on the proposed federation. They argue that formation of a new state without firm backing from local opinion would create an unstable neighbor which could be easily subverted. Subversion, of course, is something at which Sukarno is adept.

Sukarno's objections, of course, run deeper. No lover of the West despite the millions he has received from Washington, he has called the federation a "neocolonialist" concept, and is unhappy about an agreement which would permit British military bases in Borneo to remain and expand after Malaysia is born.

If Thant calls for a plebiscite in North Borneo and Sarawak on the question, it would at least set back Malaysia's birth date beyond Aug. 31. If such an election were favorable to federation, Sukarno will try other stalling tactics.

Arnold's No 'Silky'

Exaggeration knows no bounds when a sports fan discusses the exploits of an athletic hero. Thus it is with a great golfer, Arnold Palmer. Whenever he is discussed by his multitude of fans they rave about his ability to come from behind and win tournaments on the last hole.

They are of course talking through their hats when they say that Palmer is the "Silky Sullivan" of the golf course. True, he does come from behind occasionally, but lately he has taken the lead early in tournaments and been overtaken in the stretch.

In the Western Open he had a good lead and lost it. In fact, in the later tournament's playoff, he had a four-stroke lead at one time and almost threw it away.

Anyway, enough of these hero-worshipping tall tales about Arnold Palmer. He's only human, after all — and unlike the race horse Silky Sullivan, he can't blame his defeats on a jockey.

Eliot Ness Completely Bushed

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — People told Robert Stack, "Pretty easy work, isn't it? All that money for just making faces at the camera."

"But Stack, after a four-year grind during which he appeared as agent Eliot Ness in 120 episodes of 'The Untouchables' says he wouldn't want another television series now for all the prestige or money in the world."

"I'm a pretty fair athlete," said the actor, who stands an inch above six feet and at 44 is still as trim as a boxer, "but there is a physical limitation to how long you can go on. Frankly, I couldn't have gone on for another year."

"It's a never-ending deteriorating kind of work. You finish a show Tuesday, then start a new one on Wednesday."

"You develop a deep, deep fatigue. You have no residual strength to to the simplest things."

Stack finally turned in his revolver after he felt his eyesight was beginning to fade, and a hemorrhage of a vocal cord left him unable to talk for two months.

"I sold my interest in the series," he said, "I don't want to keep books on something unfinished."

But Bob retains a feeling of warm appreciation for his role as Eliot Ness, the name he is still best known by to millions.

"The fun of a successful television series is that the set becomes a little world of your own," he observed.

"In a way you have more freedom than in motion pictures. You don't have to check with a bank to see if a certain actor is acceptable for a part. You can pick completely unknown actors as leads, and give them a chance to show what they can do."

Stack recently completed his 29th film, "The Caretakers," which costars Polly Bergen and Joan Crawford. This winter he will make in Europe "Cross of Iron," based on a German war novel.

A local boy who made good, Bob has known Hollywood notables on a first-name basis since his youth when he first won reknown as a national champion skeet shot. Later he served as a gunnery instructor for the Navy during World War II.

"Will Rogers was my father's best friend," he recalled, "and Mack Sennett bounced me on his knee as a kid. Growing up, through my skeet shooting, I got to know Gary Cooper and Clark Gable well."

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — That old family argument over when's the time to stop paying repair bills on the old car and star making monthly payments on a new one is echoed today in offices of corporations that have their own fleet of trucks.

An estimated 7.3 million trucks are now operated by manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, most owned outright but many leased.

Northwestern University's transportation center says 18,000 companies have fleets of 10 or more trucks.

Industry sources say the average age of commercial and industrial trucks that are company owned is now 6.8 years, compared with 4.8 years in 1941.

Truck makers contend that some of the age increase is due to sturdier qualities of the new models.

Truck leasing companies argue that much of the stretch-out in usage is due to the increased number of companies now owning their own fleets and to a yen (just like that of a family budget manipulator) to get a few more miles out of the old vehicles.

Both makers and leasers of trucks (common carriers as well) stress savings they see if obsolete equipment is ditched.

James W. Millard, manager of General Motors' transportation productively research department, estimates industry might shave its material handling costs by $15 billion annually, if it modernized its transportation and material handling equipment.

He says that GM research teams have yet to complete a study of individual truck fleets without finding a savings potential greater than 20 per cent and are convinced that 10 per cent would be the minimum saving.

Armund J. Schoen, chairman of the American Automotive Leasing Association, says the number of leased trucks has increased from 240,000 in 1958 to 400,000 today.

He credits the drive by corporate financial officers to cut costs in all operations. But he adds that they face a new cost that of obsolescence.

Shoen's own company, Wheels Inc., reports its study of 2,347 companies operating 47,841 trucks shows that gasoline driven vehicles 5 years old or older had operating and maintenance costs that averaged 3.1 cents a mile more than for younger trucks.

For diesel units the excess operating cost of the older over the younger trucks averaged 1.7 cents a mile when driven between 200,000 and 300,000 miles and 2.6 cents a mile when driven longer distances.

The leasing company president figures this out to a loss of $31,000 a year per million miles for gas units and $26,000 for diesel fleets.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The human body has many sources of reserve. "Saving for a rainy day" is one of the techniques the body employs to house and store energy for use on special occasions.

The body has its own special "heart fund" or heart reserve, which is called on when there is a particular strain placed upon it. Heavy work or exertion puts an extra burden upon the heart. By a remarkable system of intercommunication, the heart reserve is notified and immediately responds. We may not even be aware that the heart is putting forth this special, added effort because it compensates so readily and quickly to meet the need.

Similarly, when a mountain climber feels that he no longer can go a single step farther, the same process of communication takes place between his fatigue and his muscular reserve. This additional spur of released energy carries him up another incline, perhaps to the very peak itself.

When the liver, during a phase of disease, is in need of an extra supply of sugar, its reserve is called upon to function in that emergency.

In various forms, the body continues quietly and efficiently to accumulate this storehouse of chemicals, vitamins and body defenses. But it is not aware of its reserve until the need arises to call it into play.

There also is a vast storehouse of emotional reserve which we build up over the years by learning and experiencing, by the solution of problems, by decisions, good or bad. This emotional warehouse is filled with limitless energy waiting to be released when the need is urgent.

We call upon this store of emotional reserve daily to help us encompass normal life situations. It is a treasury of experience and faith and belief in one's own judgement and personal integrity. Its accumulation is a slow, ever-growing, never-ending process. Sometimes it grows to be barely perceptible. But through all of life's successive experiences this reserve of emotional energy continues to develop. Periods of great stress bring it forth as a great opponent and destroyer of anxiety and fear.

When each new problem that arises can be settled in a positive, mature manner, something is added to that storehouse of emotional reserve. This emotional energy is the sum total of any man's knowledge of adult living.

Sometimes, it takes an overwhelming experience to uncover

Critical Issues Council

By John Chamberlain

Some of the conservative, or Goldwater, Republicans, though not all of them, are worried less by the new Critical Issues Council, formed by the year-old Republican Citizens Committee, will turn out to be an ideological stalking horse for a "liberal," or "me-too," or "eastern," Presidential candidate.

On the surface, there would seem to be reason for the fears. In the first place, the Citizens Committee excludes by the very nature of its definition any active Republican Congressmen, which means that Republicans who are in the thick of legislative battle will not be able to have much influence on the sort of "position papers" that are scheduled for production by the Critical Issues Council. The more fervent Goldwaterites claim that a "position paper" on practically every burning problem can be found in the books, articles, speeches and newspaper columns of their own particular candidates for President. They want to be sure that the "positive programs" of the Arizona Senator are not dismissed out of hand when the "positioning" is done.

A second objection to the Critical Issues Council is that its chairman will be John Hopkins University President, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, who is considered by conservatives to be far more "liberal," in the pejorative sense of the word, than brother Ike.

The worries of the conservatives extend to other organizations that carry the seemingly innocuous word "citizen" in their title. Though a Republican Citizens group has been set up in Connecticut with the avowed "neutral" aim of helping any Republican candidate, whether liberal or conservative, to crack the powerful Democratic city strongholds in Bridgeport, Waterbury and Hartford, some conservative Republicans are expressing the opinion that the national Republican Citizens Committee is bound to have undue influence on the local organization. Since the head of the Connecticut Republicans citizens group, John Lupton, has been on the conservative side in the past, such fears would seem to be misplaced. Indeed, the Republican mayor of Meriden, Conn., has objected to the Lupton organization on precisely opposite grounds; he is afraid that John Lupton will use his job to promote his own philosophy.

The worries, pro and contra, might be referred for adjudication, if that is the word for it, to Barry Goldwater himself, who has called upon Republicans of all stripes to chew up some Democrats for a change. But while the Goldwaterites are waiting for a calming word from their own particular tiger, a preliminary essay of the membership of the Critical Issues Council might yield some interesting conjectures.

The Critical Issues Council is chock-a-block with former Eisenhower Cabinet members, which means that the spirit of Ike will probably prevail over the more tendentious spirit of brother Milton. This will hardly contribute to the peace of mind of those Republicans who consider that Ikehimself is too much of a middle-of-the-roader. But along with suspected "liberals" on the Council, there are some names that should have a reassuring ring to Republicans who would like to go forth to war in 1964 under an avowedly conservative leader.

There is Dr. Walter H. Judd, former Congressman from Minnesota, for example. During his long and honorable career of service in the House of Representatives, Dr. Judd did his best to hold the Red, or Mao Tse-tung, China Lobby at bay. He is a distinct non-appealer, and any "position paper" that the Critical Issues Council may turn out on U. S. Far Eastern policy is sure to get good scrutiny from a knowledgeable Old China Hand. Admiral Arleigh Burke, another Council member, will surely back up Dr. Judd.

Another member named to the Critical Issues Council is Dr. Don Paarlberg, who was once a powerful member of Ezra Taft Benson's high command in the Department of Agriculture. Dr. Paarlberg is certainly no enemy of ideas that look toward extending the

Three national leaders of Southeast Asia have agreed to turn over to UN Secretary General U Thant their dispute concerning the proposed new federation of Malaysia.

The three — President Sukarno of Indonesia, President Riosado Macapagal of the Philippines and Malayan Prime Minister Abdul Rahman — have said they will abide by Thant's finding.

But Sukarno is the joker in the deck. His past behavior raises doubts whether he will accept Thant's ruling if it is not to his liking.

Malaysia was scheduled to come into being Aug. 31. Representatives of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo have agreed to form the federation. It has Britain's blessing (Malaya is an independent Commonwealth country, and the others are British colonies).

But the Philippines and Indonesia object. They contend that the people of Sarawak and North Borneo should be permitted to vote on the proposed federation. They argue that formation of a new state without firm backing from local opinion would create an unstable neighbor which could be easily subverted. Subversion, of course, is something at which Sukarno is adept.

Sukarno's objections, of course, run deeper. No lover of the West despite the millions he has received from Washington, he has called the federation a "neocolonialist" concept, and is unhappy about an agreement which would permit British military bases in Borneo to remain and expand after Malaysia is born.

If Thant calls for a plebiscite in North Borneo and Sarawak on the question, it would at least set back Malaysia's birth date beyond Aug. 31. If such an election were favorable to federation, Sukarno will try other stalling tactics.

Arnold's No 'Silky'

Exaggeration knows no bounds when a sports fan discusses the exploits of an athletic hero. Thus it is with a great golfer, Arnold Palmer. Whenever he is discussed by his multitude of fans they rave about his ability to come from behind and win tournaments on the last hole.

They are of course talking through their hats when they say that Palmer is the "Silky Sullivan" of the golf course. True, he does come from behind occasionally, but lately he has taken the lead early in tournaments and been overtaken in the stretch.

In the Western Open he had a good lead and lost it. In fact, in the later tournament's playoff, he had a four-stroke lead at one time and almost threw it away.

Anyway, enough of these hero-worshipping tall tales about Arnold Palmer. He's only human, after all — and unlike the race horse Silky Sullivan, he can't blame his defeats on a jockey.

Dr. Bruns has some unorthodox ideas about using a stepped-up system of unemployment insurance to combat depressions, which might cost some money, but in general both he and Dr. Saulnier are apostles of old-fashioned fiscal sanity.

Finally, Lewis L. Strauss, former head of the Atomic Energy Commission and a good comrade-in-arms of Herbert Hoover, is on the Council. Conservatives could not ask for a better watchdog.

Court Decision On Cincinnati Schools Asked

State Board Wants
Legal Action on Segregation Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bring us a court decision holding that the Cincinnati school system is practicing illegal segregation, the State Board of Education says, and we'll take it from there.

That is the essence of the State Board's stand as given Monday to counsel for the Cincinnati branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on its demand for state action.

Without a court finding the board told Cincinnati NAACP general counsel Norris Muldrow at its monthly meeting Monday, the board cannot act on the complaint the NAACP brought over a scheduled transfer of pupils.

But if there does come a judicial decision that the Cincinnati situation constitutes illegal segregation, Board President Wayne E. Shaffer of Bryan assured Muldrow, the board has a duty to take such action as withholding funds from the Cincinnati school system.

At issue is a plan to transfer intact next month four classes of Negro pupils from overcrowded, predominantly Negro Evanston Elementary School to virtually all white Oakley Elementary School. The NAACP insists the Cincinnati board must break up the classes and put the pupils into integrated classes with other Oakley students.

Muldrow contended the transferred Evanston youngsters would have segregated classrooms, lunch and recess periods, Cincinnati school officials denied this.

Other State Board of Education business Monday included its resolution that a plan be drafted for centralized state purchasing of school buses to replace the present practice in which bus purchases rest with local districts.

The action came as the board found it necessary to reduce by 10 per cent the formula governing state aid payments to local districts for school bus purchases.

The reason was a reduced appropriation by the General Assembly.

The resolution points out that state funds are used to pay about two-thirds of the cost of buses bought by local districts. John Parsons, head of the Ohio Department of Education's Transportation Division, estimated that state purchasing might save $1 million to $1.5 million a year. He said a plan can be drafted for the board's consideration before the end of the year.

The plan will have to receive approval from the State Controlling Board as well as the Board of Education before it can be effected.

In other actions the State Board:

—Approved a resolution endorsing the proposed $250 million state bond issue on the November ballot which provides $175 million for university buildings, $35 million for emergency public school building loans and money for state recreation and state building facilities.

—Created a school district in Athens County, subject to voter approval at the November election, composed of the present Nelsonville, Gloucester, Buchtel, York and Jackson-Trimbale districts.

—Transferred the Chauncey-Dover District to the Athens City District, subject to voter approval in November.

—Revoked, effective June 30, 1964 high school charters on grounds of violating minimum standards at Jefferson, Verona, Monroe, Jackson and Gratis, all of Preble County, and Bloomfield in Trumbull County.

—Authorized 41 school districts to submit bond issues which would

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — World disarmament won't be one step nearer when the Senate finally votes its expected approval of a limited nuclear test ban treaty.

A test ban—important as it is, perhaps, as an opening to better relations with Russia—is a minor episode compared with disarmament.

Under this treaty the United States and Russia will retain their full supply of nuclear bombs, enough to devastate the earth.

They will go on testing underground to develop more weapons. The treaty simply bans tests in the atmosphere, outer space and in the oceans.

President Kennedy and, Monday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, said this country will continue underground tests. One was fired Monday.

The present debate over the wisdom of the test treaty is an insight into the debate ahead if this country ever considers a disarmament treaty.

Disarmament seems unlikely in this generation, at least no matter how much clamor smaller nations make about it.

The United States, despite its expressed concern over the years about disarmament, would probably be the last to agree to it. There are several reasons.

One of the most obvious is the failure of the United States and Russia this time to ban underground tests.

This country feels confident it can detect tests above ground but not under. To prevent cheating, it wants an inspection system.

That would mean putting American inspectors in Russia and Russian inspectors in American territory, or international inspectors in both.

The Russians complain inspection is spying. They wouldn't agree. Without inspectors, the United States wouldn't agree to ban underground tests.

If the United States and Russia agreed to disarmament—an even more difficult inspection problem—the Senate would hardly approve without a check.

The check would have to be constant. Then there's the problem of nuclear weapons. Disarmament without abolishing nuclear weapons wouldn't mean much.

But the United States and Russia have nuclear weapons coming out of their ears. Would the Senate ever feel sure Russia was not hiding some?

There's another problem; numbers. The Russians and Red Chinese have far more manpower than the West and could put more armies in the field.

But nuclear weapons can destroy more territory and kill more people than all the armies. American nuclear weapons balance off Communist armies.

But if nuclear weapons were abolished by this country, the odds would be reversed any time the Communists wanted to break a disarmament treaty and rebuild their armies.

The tendency since the war, in considering disarmament, has been to think in terms of the United States and Russia.

Russia's relations with Red China have become wretched. The time might come when Russia would trust the United States enough to disarm.

But could it trust the Red Chinese? And how could it dare to disarm unless the Chinese did, too.

But the Chinese insist that war with the West is inevitable, that capitalism won't surrender peacefully, and therefore the West must be overwhelmed.

ing, it wants an inspection system.

Orient Canine Honored in Hero Contest

Nipper, a stout-hearted toy collie from Orient, who routed an intruder who had broken into the home of his mistress, today was named winner of fifth place in the tenth annual Ken-L Ration gold medal competition for the title of America's Dog Hero of the Year for 1963.

Winner of the top prize was Dutch, a rollicking German shepherd from Troy, Pa., who went to the aid of two small brothers who were drowning in the 12-foot-deep waters of a pond near their home. Dutch leaped into the 34-degree water, pulled one lad to shore by a shoe and ankle and then he and the boy summoned the lad's mother, who plunged in and brought the other boy, unconscious, to shore. With the aid of local police, physicians, and hospital attendants the lad finally pulled through by noon the next day.

Nipper launched his claim to nationwide fame when he came upon an ex-convict who had broken into the home of his mistress, Mrs. Frank Story of 7737 Harrisburg Pike, Orient. By the time that Mrs. Story had reached the basement to investigate, Nipper had seized the intruder by the trousers and was hanging on grimly.

Mrs. Story raced to the telephone and called the sheriff, who collared the ex-convict a short distance away. He was charged with burglary.

Nipper will receive a $100 bond, plus a silver medal, a silver plaque, a silver-plated leash and collar, a custom-made dog blanket and a six-month supply of dog food. The award will be made within the next few weeks.

Appeals Court Sidesteps Rule In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a 2-1 decision Monday sidestepped a ruling on whether Prince Edward County had the right to close public schools to avoid racial integration until Virginia's Supreme Court rules on the matter.

The majority opinion said that it was up to the Virginia court first to determine whether the state's school system was a state entity under the control and direction of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

The state and Prince Edward County have contended that Virginia's constitutional requirement for the establishment of a school system does not mean that a locality cannot, by declining to appropriate local school funds, with draw from public school operations.

Public schools in Prince Edward, a southside Virginia county, were denied local funds and closed in 1959 to avoid court-ordered classroom desegregation.

Five years ago, President Eisenhower appeared before the U.N. General Assembly to outline a six-point plan for bringing peace to the troubled Middle East.

One year ago, President Kennedy delivered a radio-television address to the nation in which he rejected the idea of an immediate tax cut to spur the economy.

A Look at Ohio Cities

Building Booms Nothing New To Toledo; Another Looms

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A building boom is nothing new for Toledoans. In fact, the dust already has settled on one "explosion" of construction and it now appears another is about to begin.

The first one, which probably was one of the first big spurts of building in Ohio, began in 1959. Until then there had been no major building in the Toledo core area for nearly 30 years. But in two years more than $25 million in building went up in the downtown area.

Although officials say there was no direct connection, the St. Lawrence Seaway was just opening and this turned Toledo into one of the largest inland seaports in the nation.

The port and its unique operation remains a source of great civic pride.

Today, as in most major cities, belts of freeways are being cut around Toledo, urban renewal programs are blossoming; a huge new post office and a city-county building are being discussed.

"We are afraid that we might have reached the climax of the building boom," Robert Dillon of the Toledo area chamber of commerce explained, "but out-of-town money and firms are getting it going again."

The out-of-town push is mainly supplied by financier John Galbreath of Columbus who is starting a riverview urban renewal project just east of the main shopping area along the Maumee River. No price tag has been put on the project, but $200,000 has been donated to the city to raise the old and vacant post office for a park in the middle of the proposed area.

Only two buildings will remain in the three-to-four block area—the new $5 million federal building which was opened last October and the Fort Meigs Hotel.

A second out-of-town spur to construction was furnished by Cleveland builder Marvin Helf who has started construction of a $3.75 million, 12-story apartment building here. The building is the first of its kind in the glass city. Occupancy is expected by next spring.

Also soon to go under construction is a three-story, $4 million post office, located on an 11-acre site. This, coupled with the new federal building, will give Toledo one of the most modern U.S. government complexes in the nation.

The 1959 boom resulted in completion of the 15-story Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co. building, a new Ohio Fuel Gas Co. office building, a $9.2 million Ohio Bell Telephone Co. annex and a $1 million downtown motel.

There also have been numerous remodelings and expansions of existing buildings.

Since 1955, 13 major shopping centers have been completed, two still are under construction and several others are planned. The largest is the Westgate complex of 32 stores plus one of the largest Sears-Roebuck stores in the nation and a huge LaSalle department store.

Eighteen schools were built during 1960 and 1961. Two more high schools were completed last year. In the same period 17 major churches were built in a city which already boasts many huge, beautiful churches.

In the governmental field, Ned Skeldon, president of the Lucas County board of commissioners, bubbles over with enthusiasm.

Last month a $350,000 renovation of the county fairgrounds into a year-round sports facility—a Skeldon brainchild—was turned over to a permanent recreation board. The next day Skeldon leaped into his next project—a city-county building which may cost $4 million and rise 10 stories into the air.

"We are blessed with a joint city-county planning commission," Skeldon explained. This commission coordinates all of the construction throughout the county and aids immeasurably in avoiding duplication of efforts.

Skeldon puts much of the credit

9 Fairs Are Scheduled For Visits by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nine county fair visits are on Gov. James A. Rhodes' schedule Wednesday. He will be hoping for better weather than he encountered last Friday when rain cut short a planned eight-day fair.

If all goes well, the governor will visit these county fairs Wednesday: Scioto in Lucasville, Clermont in Owensville, Clark in Springfield, Miami in Troy, Mercer in Celina, Henry in Napoleon, Erie in Sandusky, Cuyahoga in Berea and Muskingum in Zanesville.

Ohio Guards Prep in Rain

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (AP) — Rain hit here Monday, just after the entire 37th Infantry Division had moved out for a week of rigorous maneuvers in the field.

Indications from the Weather Bureau were that more than 8,000 Ohio National Guardsmen and 800 attached Reservists would spend most of this second week of training in the chilling rain.

On tap for the whole division the rest of this week are combat-like maneuvers stressing guerrilla warfare. Aggressors will attack each unit of the division at least 20 times during the week.

Maj. Gen. Loren G. Windom, division commander, says this type of fighting is being stressed because "any potential enemy of the United States knows the value of guerrilla warfare and we want to be prepared in case we are ever forced to fight it."

Dear Abby: 'Mentally' Disturbed!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Are you a psychiatrist? If not, what gives you the right to determine whether or not people need professional care in this field? On several occasions you have advised that some friend or relative be examined by a head doctor. I assume you would have all humans conform to one pattern. Did it ever occur to you that some people LIKE being different, and are not mentally disturbed? Take that woman who wears muu muus on the street and likes to talk to bus drivers. Couldn't she simply be trying to show society that we are not all puppets of conformity?

DISTURBED
DEAR DISTURBED: The woman with the muu muus might have been perfectly sound, right up to the point where she was described as "eating tranquilizers like popcorn". Then I suggested she might need professional help. It is no insult to be directed to a psychiatrist. Furthermore, it's better to see one and NOT need treatment than not to see one and NEED treatment.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 17 years and have three children. My husband left for a fishing trip for a week and when I could contact him in case of emergency, he said, "I'll be 'around' Rice Lake, Wisconsin, and if I give you more information you'll find an emergency to call me back and spoil my vacation." What do you say to man like that?

FED UP
DEAR FED: If what he fears might happen HAS happened, I'd say, "Goodbye, Dear, CALL ME

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Candace Park" that the main reason why so few Americans fly flags is: "On the go Americans" are never sure if they'll be home by sunset to take in the flag so, rather than show this disrespect to the flag, they do not put it out.

What you should know about Early American furniture:

Early American (sometimes called American Colonial) is a term applied rather loosely to all furniture types produced or used in the American colonies. Actually it embraces a wide range of designs including pieces home-crafted by frontiersmen as well as elegant styles imported from Europe at the time.

Through the years, the popularity of Early American furniture has been constant. In recent years there has been a surge of interest about the style. Furniture designers across America are translating the Early American motif into furniture that is fresh and stimulating.

The warm, informal nature of the style complements contemporary casual living and entertaining. Furniture stylists expect the trend toward Early American decor to continue for many years to come.

Rochester and Buffalo staged a slugfest for undisputed possession of second place in the International League's Northern Division Monday night with the Red Wings coming out on top in extra innings.

A three-run homer by relief pitcher Dean Stone in the top of the 10th inning gave Rochester the victory, 10-9.

Jacksonville stopped Atlanta's five-game winning streak, 5-0; Toronto edged Indianapolis, 7-6; Arkansas shut out Richmond, 1-0, and the Syracuse-Columbus game was rained out.

Cleveland Books 10 Games on Road

CLEVELAND (AP) — If the Cleveland Indians hope to move up in the American League standings, they will have to start the push on this 10-game trip beginning with the Chicago White Sox tonight.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant (8-10) has been picked to start for the Indians against Chicago's Eddie Fisher (6-8) or Dave DeBusschere (2-4) in the opener of a two-game series.

Then Cleveland moves on to Boston for four games and to New York for four more before returning home Aug. 23.

Lebanon Area Park Faces Rights Hearing

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Civil Rights Commission scheduled a public hearing here today about charges of alleged racial discrimination at the Old Mill Stream Park in nearby Waynesville.

The commission has issued a complaint charging the park's owners with failure to post the law - required public accommodations notice and with trying to evade the law by calling the park a private club.

Browns Sound Distress Call For Lineman

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — "Come back Mike. We need you."

The Cleveland Browns put out that distress call Monday to former captain and offensive tackle Mike McCormack in the hope he will come out of retirement.

Arthur Modell, club president, conferred with McCormack, who is selling insurance in his hometown of Kansas City.

The Browns ran into trouble in the 24-10 opening exhibition loss to Detroit when tackle Monte Clark, who was supposed to replace McCormack, suffered torn knee ligaments. Clark will be out for at least two weeks.

When he retired after the 1962 season, McCormack, 33, a solid performer on the Browns' line for 10 years, said he might come out of retirement if Cleveland had trouble on the offensive line.

There were strong indications that McCormack will respond to the new appeal.

With Clark sidelined, Coach Blanton Collier said John Brown will start at the offensive tackle spot in Saturday night's game.

The Browns' other injuries appear to be slight. Rookie safety man Larry Benz has a jammed thumb, but he took his regular turn in Monday's workout. Quarterback Frank Ryan is bothered by a turned ankle but he alternated with Jim Ninowski during the workout and seems ready to go in the big doubleheader. Defensive halfback Jim Shorter may miss the game with a shoulder muscle pull.

Maloney To Face Giants Tonight

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Maloney was expected to start against Juan Marichal tonight as the Cincinnati Reds and San Francisco Giants open their last series this season at Crosley Field.

The hot weather has been good for both teams. The second-place Giants, four games out of first place, have won 15 of their last 20 games, while the Reds won seven of their last 11.

Cincinnati is in fourth place, 7½ games behind the league leaders. Maloney (18-4) has not pitched since last Wednesday. The Reds did not need him to take two out of three from the Dodgers last weekend.

Baseball hall of famer Bob Feller pitched 12 one-hit games for the Cleveland Indians, a major league record.

276 Golfers Enter Junior Tournament

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some of the nation's top-flight young golfers tee off today in the 46th Western Junior Golf Tournament.

A huge field of 276, ranging in age from 13 to 19, will be challenging Ohio State University's par 72 Scarlet and Gray courses.

The record number of entries, representing 27 states and Canada, play 18-hole qualifying rounds today and Wednesday. Half the field will use the Scarlet course while the other plays the Gray layout. They will switch courses Wednesday.

The low 32 qualifiers make their run for honors with two rounds of match play Thursday and another double round Friday.

An 18-hole finale, on the rugged 7,120-yard Scarlet Course, decides the championship Saturday.

A new titlist is assured since last year's winner, George Shortridge of St. Paul, Minn., has turned professional.

The field is laden with teenage hotshots, including 12 of the qualifiers from the 1962 event.

Among the championship hopefuls are such stars as Bob Bourne of Oberlin, the Ohio Amateur king; Alex Antonio Jr. of Hubbard, winner of the Ohio high school crown the last two years, and John Cowan of Urban's Ohio's junior champion.

Ankrom found the range with his bat for Kiwanis. He went five for five, and knocked a double, three triples and a homerun, while scoring five times and getting 11 RBI's.

TERRY CAMPBELL managed a triple, good for two runs, Tom Cassill banged three singles and Steve Dade swatted a double and a single.

The Hill brothers, Chet and George, kept the contest a sporting event. George bombed two doubles for three RBI's while Chet connected with two singles.

Speedy Scot Is Favored in Yonkers Trot

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Speedy Scot, favorite for the Hambletonian for weeks, was made an early line 9-5 choice for the richest harness race of the season, the Thursday night at Yonkers Raceway.

Speedy Scot, owned by the Castleton Farm, Lexington, Ky., drew post position No. 6 Monday. Eight 3-year-olds will start in the triple crown trotting series that includes the Hambletonian at Duquoin, Ill., Aug. 28 and the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington Oct. 4.

In addition to Speedy Scot, four others are given chances of taking the triple accomplished only in 1955 by Scott Frost. They are Arden Homestead Stable's Florio, Goshen, N.Y.; C&H Stable's Fred Walker, Archbold, Ohio; Allwood Stable's Diggs Dell, Fair Hills, N.J., and Water Mill Stable's Valid Hanover, Rockville Centre, N.Y.

Relief Hurler's HR Helps Rochester

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rochester and Buffalo staged a slugfest for undisputed possession of second place in the International League's Northern Division Monday night with the Red Wings coming out on top in extra innings.

A three-run homer by relief pitcher Dean Stone in the top of the 10th inning gave Rochester the victory, 10-9.

Jacksonville stopped Atlanta's five-game winning streak, 5-0; Toronto edged Indianapolis, 7-6; Arkansas shut out Richmond, 1-0, and the Syracuse-Columbus game was rained out.

More than 314 million people have watched National League baseball games since 1901.

Physicals Set Tonight for CHS Gridders

Physicals for Circleville High School grid candidates are scheduled 7 p. m. today at the high school to kick off the approaching football season.

Although practice cannot begin before Friday, uniforms and equipment will be distributed Thursday morning, it was announced by Paul Starr, CHS grid mentor.

Starr anticipates at least 60 candidates will turn out for the physicals tonight and for initial practice sessions on Friday.

Assisting with the varsity coaching duties this year will be Ken Carpenter, Richard Fisher and Jim Lint.

Cleveland Books 10 Games on Road

CLEVELAND (AP) — If the Cleveland Indians hope to move up in the American League standings, they will have to start the push on this 10-game trip beginning with the Chicago White Sox tonight.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant (8-10) has been picked to start for the Indians against Chicago's Eddie Fisher (6-8) or Dave DeBusschere (2-4) in the opener of a two-game series.

Then Cleveland moves on to Boston for four games and to New York for four more before returning home Aug. 23.

Lebanon Area Park Faces Rights Hearing

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Civil Rights Commission scheduled a public hearing here today about charges of alleged racial discrimination at the Old Mill Stream Park in nearby Waynesville.

The commission has issued a complaint charging the park's owners with failure to post the law - required public accommodations notice and with trying to evade the law by calling the park a private club.

Browns Sound Distress Call For Lineman

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — "Come back Mike. We need you."

The Cleveland Browns put out that distress call Monday to former captain and offensive tackle Mike McCormack in the hope he will come out of retirement.

Arthur Modell, club president, conferred with McCormack, who is selling insurance in his hometown of Kansas City.

The Browns ran into trouble in the 24-10 opening exhibition loss to Detroit when tackle Monte Clark, who was supposed to replace McCormack, suffered torn knee ligaments. Clark will be out for at least two weeks.

When he retired after the 1962 season, McCormack, 33, a solid performer on the Browns' line for 10 years, said he might come out of retirement if Cleveland had trouble on the offensive line.

There were strong indications that McCormack will respond to the new appeal.

With Clark sidelined, Coach Blanton Collier said John Brown will start at the offensive tackle spot in Saturday night's game.

The Browns' other injuries appear to be slight. Rookie safety man Larry Benz has a jammed thumb, but he took his regular turn in Monday's workout. Quarterback Frank Ryan is bothered by a turned ankle but he alternated with Jim Ninowski during the workout and seems ready to go in the big doubleheader. Defensive halfback Jim Shorter may miss the game with a shoulder muscle pull.

Pickaway Farmer And Sportsmen Club Slates Shoot

The Pickaway County Farmer's and Sportsman's Assn. will hold an NRA short course 45 caliber pistol match 6 p. m. Thursday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds range.

Thirty rounds of ammunition will be used on registered targets. Dick Redman, secretary of the organization, said persons interested in joining the club are invited to attend the match.

The group also plans to hold an NRA type C course firing of 30 caliber M1 rifles. This consists of 30 shots on registered targets at 200 yards sustained and slow fire at Camp Sherman in Ross County 9 a. m. Aug. 25.

All qualification scores must be submitted to the NRA headquarters, Washington, D. C. at the end of each year. Members shooting high scores are presented medals in each class of firing.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband Carmel O. Allen, who was killed July 11, 1962.

I mourned for him in silence. No eyes can see the weep. But many a tear is shed. While others are asleep.

Sadly missed by wife and children, Virginia, Bonnie and Carmel Jr. and grandchildren.

In loving memory of our Father John M. Groce, who passed away 2 years ago today, Aug. 13th, 1961.

No one knows how much we miss you.

No one knows the bitter pain we have suffered since we lost you. Life has never been the same.

In our hearts your memory lingers sweetly, tender, fond and true. There is not a day dear Father that we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by his daughters Mrs. Rockford Brown, Mrs. Edwin Schmeuauer.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband Carmon O. Allen who was killed July 11, 1962.

I mourned for him in silence
No eyes can see me weep
But many a silent tear is shed.
While others are asleep
Sadly missed by wife and children,
Virginia, Ronnie and Carmon Jr. and grandchildren.

In loving memory of our Father John M. Groce who passed away 2 years ago today Aug. 13th, 1961.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender fond and true.
There is not a day dear Father
That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by his daughters
Mrs. Rockford Brown
Mrs. Edwin Schenauer

Blue Monday Is Favorite Of Dodgers

Pitching Staff Rests As Rival Giants Take Defeats from Also-Rans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Blue Monday? Not for the Los Angeles Dodgers. It's their favorite day.

First, it's often baseball's day of rest and the Big Three of the Dodger pitching staff say they need it. Second, the last two Mondays the National League leaders have sat on the sidelines and watched some of the also-rans knock off the principal opposition, the San Francisco Giants.

The seventh-place Philadelphia Phillies did the job Monday, rallying for a 3-1 verdict over the Giants that increased the idle Dodgers' lead from 3½ to four games. A week before, ninth-place Houston turned the trick edging the Giants 5-4 and increasing the idle Dodgers' lead from 4½ to five games.

Then, too, there's the rest angle. And Johnny Podres, Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale say they badly need it. The record bears them out. Their combined recent record is 5-6.

The Phillies' Johnny Callison and lefty Chris Short were the principal Giant-killers in the last episode. Short beating the Giants for the first time in his four-year major league career and Callison belting a decisive two-run eighth inning homer.

Boston edged Minnesota 5-4 and ended a nine-game losing string while Pittsburgh knocked off Houston 4-2 in the only other games scheduled in the majors.

Short, who had an 0-5 lifetime record against the Giants, spaced eight hits, struck out eight and walked only one. He got all the support he needed from Callison and Roy Sievers.

Willie Mays got one of the Giant hits and extended his hitting string to 14 games.

The loss was charged to Jim Duffalo, his first of the season.

Lou Clinton, restored to Boston's right-field job in a line-up shuffle, bashed two homers and drove in four runs as the Red Sox snapped their long losing string and a six-game Twin winning streak.

Jerry Lynch drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the first inning and his defensive replacement, Manny Mota, singled in another in the eighth in Pittsburgh's conquest of Houston. Bob Friend won his 14th of the season.

Politics Claimed In Korean Arrest

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korean opposition leaders charged today that the arrest of former military Premier Song Yo-chang, an outspoken critic of strongman Gen. Chung Hee Park, was politically inspired.

Political tensions rose in the capital after retired Lt. Gen. Song's seizure Sunday, three days after he published a letter calling on Park to give up plans to run for president in the October election.

The military junta charged Song with responsibility for the killing of students and citizens during the uprising against President Syngman Rhee's regime in April 1960.

Authorities also revived an old charge accusing him of ordering the execution without trial of an army colonel during the Korean war.

Maury Wills, the Los Angeles Dodgers shortstop, was born in the city of Washington but now makes his home in the state of Washing- ton.

Comedian Sad As Studio Goes

Stan Laurel Recalls Hal Roach Memories

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — All the props and supplies have been auctioned off. Soon the bulldozers will do their work and nothing will be left of the Hal Roach Studios but memories.

"It's a shame," says Stan Laurel. "Who would ever have thought that it would happen!" Stan, surviving member of the great comedy team of Laurel and Hardy, has plenty of memories and he lives surrounded by them in an apartment overlooking the Santa Monica Bay.

There are cartoons and posters of Stan and Ollie in their prime. Stan's honorary Oscar stands ironically on the television set. Above his desk is a signed portrait of President Kennedy, which came to Stan after he was given the Oscar.

The veteran comedian strays little from the apartment. A stroke a few years ago paralyzed his side and he moves with some difficulty.

Despite his incapacity, Stan is bright and cheerful, and his hearty laugh sometimes resounds through the room. He was able to laugh despite his sadness at the passing of Roach Studios.

"We had a lot of fun there," he reflected. "Hal and I used to have our fights. You see, I was a 'no' man."

"Hal would say, 'You know what I mean,' and I would say, 'No, I don't know what you mean.'"

The comedy team finally left Roach in 1940 and went on to make features at 20th Century Fox.

During none of their career did they receive a share of the profits. Hence when television brought their greatest fame, they received only the glory and none of the money that was coiled from returns of their comedies.

U.S. May Deplete Troops in Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said today that if Common Market nations continue to raise tariffs against U.S. goods, this country may have to withdraw some of its troops from Europe.

"If the Common Market is going to make it impossible for us to trade with them," he told a reporter "we cannot afford to keep up the kind of establishment we have in Europe."

Fulbright chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that he wasn't talking about just the higher duties imposed on American chickens or other poultry products. He said those are just a symbol of what he was referring to.

Daytonians Voting on City Change

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A small turnout was expected today as Daytonians went to the polls to decide whether to change their form of city government after 50 years.

The issue was the proposed "strong mayor" system versus the commission-city manager arrangement under which Dayton has operated since Jan. 1, 1914.

An organization called the Committee for Representative Government launched the campaign for a change.

The committee and its supporters say the proposed setup of a mayor elected at large, with the city manager as his deputy, and a nine-member Council elected by district would provide better representation.

Fighting to retain the commission-manager scheme is the Dayton League for Good Government.

The league and its allies say the present form, five commissioners elected at large for four-year terms on a nonpartisan basis and an appointed city manager, has worked well through the years.

If the strong mayor government is adopted, a special primary will be held next month to choose candidates for the November election. The new system then would take effect Jan. 1, 1964.

Library Hearing Pledged by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Opponents will have ample opportunity to voice objections to any recommendation about abolishing the state library board and relocating library operations, Gov. James A. Rhodes promised Monday.

Rhodes reiterated that he has received no official report from the "Little Hoover Commission" studying state government, adding:

"If its report recommends a change in the statutes under which the state library operates, I shall carefully consider the recommendation. And, if I approve it, will ask the General Assembly to consider the proposed changes."

AMA Chief Asks End Of Medical Race Line

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Taking over as president of the National Medical Association, Dr. Kenneth Clement of Cleveland has urged the American Medical Association to end racial discrimination in medicine.

Clement said at the Negro medical organization's convention Monday that the AMA should expel members of local medical societies which refuse to drop the color bar that exists in some states. He said the AMA should issue a public statement opposing "separate but equal" provisions in hospitals.

Ohioan Sentenced For Indiana Theft

ALBION Ind. (AP) — Robert Fair 31, Decatur, Ind., and Anna Marie Marburger, 20, Dayton, Ohio, alleged former members of an interstate burglary ring, were sentenced Monday to 1-10 years' imprisonment.

The pair and a juvenile were arrested for felonious entry in a Noble County house burglary.

Deputy Sheriff Roy Sayles Jr. told the Noble Circuit Court the pair related they formerly operated with an 11-member gang out of the Dayton, Ohio, area and told of hundreds of midwest burglaries. They and the boy said they started operating on their own last May, Sayles said.

Three alleged members of the original gang are under arrest at Xenia, Ohio.

Storm Sewer Bonds Approved by Board

Pickaway County's Board of Commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution authorizing the issuance of bonds for construction of improvement No. 1 in the Ashville - Teays Valley Areas Storm Sewer District.

Firemen Check Car

Circleville Firemen were called to an area near the Lincoln Molded Plastics plant yesterday to check a car owned by Betty Riffle, 121 E. High St. Damage, apparently caused by a short circuit in wiring, was estimated at $5.

Delphos Paper Sued by Allen County Aide

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Allen County Commissioner Owen Mason has filed a libel suit in Common Pleas Court against the Delphos Herald, daily newspaper in the community northwest of here.

Mason, in the suit filed Monday, seeks $100,000 actual damages and $100,000 punitive damages. He charges that an editorial in the July 11 edition of the Herald implied that he is a "liar and a fox." He says his reputation has been sullied and he has been made a subject of ridicule.

Background for the suit is a dispute involving the Lima Airport between here and Delphos. The county has been trying to dispose of the runway there and obtain an operator for a new Allen County airport east of the city. The matter is now in the courts with a temporary injunction in force holding up County Commission action.

Delphos interests have been critical of the proposed airport relocation.

Monthly Benefits Raised For Local Attorney, Wife

At least one Pickaway County resident knows that it pays to check with the Social Security Office if a person works and has earnings after first receiving social security benefits.

For Attorney Charles H. May and his wife, Pearl Bennett May, it means that they are now receiving $98.50 more per month than they would have received if Mr. May had not contacted the Social Security Office after he and his wife initially became entitled to social security benefits in 1953.

In total money, Mr. and Mrs. May have received $5,303.20 through July, 1963, over and above what they would have received had they never contacted the social security office after his initial claim was filed.

The Social Security Act provides for recomputing the monthly benefit when a beneficiary continues working after he becomes entitled to social security benefits. Generally, earnings after retirement must be high enough to increase the average earnings on which social security benefits were originally based.

This was Mr. May's situation when he filed originally in 1953, his principal source of income, as an attorney, was not covered by social security. Thus his initial benefit was relatively low. After attorneys became covered by social security in 1956, Mr. May has twice filed for and received increases in his monthly benefit.

Mr. May celebrated his 90th birthday in March of this year. His wife was age 84 in May. They have been married 60 years.

Attorney May has the distinction of being the oldest practicing member of the Ohio Bar Association. He began his practice the day before Decoration Day in 1895 and now has been practicing for 68 years. In addition to his law practice, Mr. May is a director of the Third National Bank and is active as a real estate broker. He is a member of the Shriners, and has been a member of the Rotary Club for 35 years. He also is a member of the local order of the Elks.

The records of the Social Security Administration are confidential. However, in the interest of improving the public's understanding of their rights under the Social Security Act, Mr. and Mrs. May agreed to have the foregoing information published.

2500 Laid Off At Ford Plant

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Some 2,500 employees at the Lorain Ford assembly plant have been laid off for three weeks while model changeovers on passenger car lines are being made.

The layoff period, which started Monday, will be longer than usual because of radical change in design planned for 1964 model Comets and Falcons, a company spokesman said.

Not affected by the changeover will be an additional 2,200 employees in the commercial truck division of the assembly facility.

Those workers furloughed after a year or more of service are guaranteed 65 per cent of their usual pay from regular state unemployment funds supplemented by benefits paid by the Ford Co., the company said.

Suspect Is Freed In St. Marys Holdup

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — Police said they had no fresh leads after releasing a man arrested in nearby St. Marys for questioning about Monday's $1,000 robbery of the Home Savings & Loan Co. here.

A slender man of about 30, according to Mrs. William Lee, forced her at gunpoint to give him the money while she was alone in the office. Mrs. Lee told officers the St. Marys man was not the robber.

James W. Whittaker and Luther G. Jerstad, two of the five Americans who scaled Mt. Everest's summit in May 1963, between them have made 90 ascents of 14,410 foot Mt. Rainier.

Even the Closets are Lighted THE MARK OF A MEDALLION HOME

I'm Nancy Riley for the Electric Company... I keep learning new things about Medallion Homes. One important feature is its spacious lighted closets. Adequate wiring is provided for every closet, and a switch controlled light is installed on the ceiling, or above the door. Helps you find things quickly — and safely — even in seldom used storage closets.

About those other features? You'll find so many in a Medallion Home; built-in flameless electric appliances, installed dryer outlet, separate washer circuit, and small appliance circuits too.

If you're tired of groping round in the dark, I urge you — visit some Medallion Homes, where even the closets are lighted. Yes, you'll find adequate wiring now and for future needs too, in a Medallion Home. Ask your builder.

Comedian Sad As Studio Goes

Stan Laurel Recalls Hal Roach Memories

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—All the props and supplies have been auctioned off. Soon the bulldozers will do their work and nothing will be left of the Hal Roach Studios but memories.

"It's a shame," says Stan Laurel. "Who would ever have thought that it would happen?" Stan, surviving member of the great comedy team of Laurel and Hardy, has plenty of memories and he lives surrounded by them in an apartment overlooking the Santa Monica Bay.

There are cartoons and posters of Stan and Ollie in their prime. Stan's honorary Oscar stands—ironically—on the television set. Above his desk is a signed portrait of President Kennedy, which came to Stan after he was given the Oscar.

The veteran comedian strays little from the apartment. A stroke a few years ago paralyzed his side and he moves with some difficulty.

Despite his incapacity, Stan is bright and cheerful, and his hearty laugh sometimes resounds through the room. He was able to laugh despite his sadness at the passing of Roach Studios.

"We had a lot of fun there," he reflected. "Hal and I used to have our fights. You see, I was a 'no' man."

"Hal would say, 'You know what I mean,' and I would say, 'No, I don't know what you mean.'"

The comedy team finally left Roach in 1940 and went on to make features at 20th Century Fox.

During none of their career did they receive a share of the profits. Hence when television brought their greatest fame, they received only the glory and none of the money that was coined from re-runs of their comedies.

U.S. May Deplete Troops in Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said today that if Common Market nations continue to raise tariffs against U.S. goods, this country may have to withdraw some of its troops from Europe.

"If the Common Market is going to make it impossible for us to trade with them," he told a reporter "we cannot afford to keep up the kind of establishment we have in Europe."

Fulbright chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that he wasn't talking about just the higher duties imposed on American chickens or other poultry products. He said those are just a symbol of what he was referring to.
